“ Sending you a tight hug. I'd be in no objection if you sent one back. Your momma was so kind to message and let me know your headstone is up. I'll be visiting soon again. I actually felt you with me just recently when I was at Lake Pontchartrain, close to my old apartment. I even passed in front of it. I was in tears. I think you knew I was having a hard day. I miss you terribly. Not a day goes by that I am not thinking of you. This is certainly not easy. I hope and pray you are free now. That your heart is at peace and God has you cradled in his arms and that you are able to talk his and everybody else's heads off while they chiluckle with you. I love you always, Dre.
