“ My mother was the best mother any daughter could have asked for. She loved giving to people. It always made her feel good. Her and my dad would help anyone in need. I will always remember when we were growing up, that we rarely heard the word NO. My parents had average jobs. We grew up not poor, but in no way were we rich, either. They always made sure that we had the things we needed. We went on vacations every year. Even though my dad worked for Delta Airlines, and we could fly for free, we most of the time drove where ever we were going, so that we could spend family time together. And most of the time we got to bring a friend along for the trip and they took care of all the expenses. Never ever asked for no money in return, just to be sure that we all had a good time. That's what was important to them. Showing us a good time. They gave both of their children, nice weddings. They had a boy and a girl grand child 1 year apart. That they loved to babysit for. They were so excited to be having, not 1 grandbaby, but 2 in a month, when my brother and I had our second children. And, they were happy that they would be having two more grandbabies to join our great family. And, they were so happy when they were born and I had another little girl and Wayne had another little boy. We had some good times, when my mom would invite us all over for a Sunday meal. We would enjoy our great meal mom cooked and all sat around playing and laughing with the kids. Our parents made sure that we were together for most of the time on holidays. My mom was my best friend, there was nothing that I couldn't tell her. She never judged me. She would just listen to me and give me advice, if it was needed. She will continue to be my best friend, even though she isn't with me anymore. I will still continue to talk to her in my daily prayers. Not only will I be talking to God, I will be talking to her through him. I know you were very sick and there was nothing that no doctor could due to make you ant better. Mom you will be sadly missed, but I know that you are in a better place. I love you so much sometimes it hurts my heart, but I have to accept your death and not be selfish and know that you are in a place that God will take care of you and daddy. I love you Mom. Sharon
