“ Went on a canoe trip with George, we were partners in the boat. Took a spill and at the time he had a injured finger. Right index if memory serves correct. Was told that the finger could not get wet. Here we are in the water and all of our supplies are floating down the river along with us and the one vivid thing that sticks out in my mind is George with his injured finger high and dry well above the water line. In fact I think that was the only dry thing we had the rest of the trip. RIP. Lowell

I will always remember George as a friendly and outgoing guy. Seems like he always had a perpetual smile on his face. Most of my memories of George are away from the job. (after work and social events). Everyone seemed to like him and enjoyed his company. In my eyes he will always be remembered as one of "The Bellsouth Guys." Rest in peace.
