“ Heather, your smile didn't just brighten the room, it brightened our hearts. Your joy, your energy & your love of life was contagious. Your personal definition of a stranger (anyone in any room who hadn't met you yet & had no idea you were about to become their new best friend) made the world a better place. A light & a love so bright cannot be extinguished by mere breaths. Although we can no longer touch you or hug you, your love will shine within us, all the days of our lives. Until we meet again my sweet girl, I will see you in the beauty of the butterflies & in the twinkle of Tyler's eyes. You will never be far away.

My sweet Heather. Words just fail me bc the pain of losing you is indescribable. We had such a close relationship your entire life. I just wish I had known how hard it actually was for you this last year because I would've given you whatever you needed but you were trying to do it on your own and I respect that. I so hope you knew what you meant to me and just how special you were. I will miss you all the rest of my days. Love, Nanny

“ You'll see nearly every person post that Heather was the sweetest and kindest person they knew. That is the truth. She loved her family and friends with all her heart. I will miss my cousin, she really lit up this world with her energy. Thanks to all of the friends and family who are able to surround the Zapalowskis at this time. Rest In Peace, Heather.
