

Jack Lee Harris Jr

January 21, 1947 - May 9, 2021

Jack Lee Harris, Jr. (January 21, 1947 – May 9, 2021) was a plumber and truck driver throughout his life. No matter where his travels took him, all roads led back to his home and roots in the heart of New Orleans. He is one to have never met a stranger, and always had a strong presence and charm when he walked into a room. He was a simple man who did not cherish material things in life, but valued the warmth of a hug with every hello. Many referred to him as ‘Crazy Uncle Jack’, a man who was a straight shooter, prideful, and spoke with authority in a deep, graveled, and unmistakable voice. Jack and his most precious Pomeranian, Mickey, were attached at the hip until his last breath.

Son of the late Jack Lee Harris and Ernestine Abadie, Jack will reunite for eternity with his sisters, Shirley Dugas, Betty DiGiovanni, Joyce “Put” Simoneaux, and his most beloved sister Ann Harris Feliciano. Jack is lovingly survived by his two children, Shane Harris (Jessica) and Jackelyn Harris Gallo (Michael), his nephew and best friend, Joseph “Joey” Feliciano Jr. (Susan), and his brother-in-law Joseph Feliciano (Beverly). He is also survived by his grandchildren Austin Harris, Taylor Harris, Jeffrey Farrell Jr. (Jordan), Landon Harris, Layni Harris and one great grandchild, Cohen Harris.

“ I have so much I can say about this man! I loved him so much! Just to hear how happy he would be when I answered his phone calls, made my day. And to get off the phone with him to an act of congress! Lol. But, he never let me hang up with telling me to "Give lil Suzie and a hug and a kiss for him" and to "take care of his boys for him" (my 2 dogs) and last but not least, "Don't be driving around in my car" (referring to my vette which he referred to as a jet plane). What I wouldn't give just to have one more conversation with you.... my heart hurts.... love and miss you so much, Unc..... May you Rest In Peace

“ As everybody that knows me, knows i am not a man of many words. so with that said, i must say. Jack was more of a son to me then a Brother-in-law. i remember one day when i was dating his sister Ann (my ex) RIP. i caught him in a bar, and had to run him out .He was about sixteen. we were always close to each other. When ever we needed each other, we were there for each other. I will miss him like so many others will. He was a kind and loving person. If you needed a shirt he would give you his, LOVE YOU SON, RIP
