“ This is a difficult time, healing time and is not easy to get the right words to express our toughs to the family.
Certainly Jay was a good friend, we spend long hours talking about life, facts and future plans, he truly enjoy live giving to others, as I remember when Wilma hit Cancun, he arrived days later with his plane full of supplies for people he even know, fighting against Customs to get all things into the country.
Many histories can be counted, but the most important I know, is that he loves his family.
Our warm condolences to all

Jay was my brother, even though he was my husband Barry's brother he was as much a brother to me as my own. I loved him like a sibling loves. Only as a sibling loves. We all will miss him.
I know I do and will always

Jay was a spirited person and always wanted to check in, engage, laugh, and debate people. He loved to tell stories and possibly tales too! I know he was generous to many and as well to me. When his maternal aunt Janella passed away, my mom, he stepped up immediately and hosted the repast at his home. I will always remember that act of generosity which meant a lot to my father, siblings and me. Rest in peace, Jay, your smile, memory, and stories will live on a very long time. --cousin Monica
