She learned to swim, oil paint, crochet, and play mahjong in her 70's, 80's and 90's. Her children and grandchildren proudly display her oil paintings throughout their houses. She lived for a brief time in Inspired Living and while there she held her very own art exhibition. She enjoyed sewing and gardening and was still cutting her own grass while in her 80's. She was a very independent, awesome, loving woman who at age 95 still lived alone in her own house. Her very favorite thing to do was to have holiday family dinners. She said that she loved the “noise” of the adults talking and the children running and playing. After dinner, everyone enjoyed her delicious strawberry shortcake. She dedicated her life to her children and will be greatly missed. She was our friend and our beloved mother. We find happiness to know that she crossed the bridge into heaven and will be dancing again with her relatives and friends.

“ Aunt Lorraine was loving, giving, creatively talented and always greeted everyone with a big, happy smile. She was often teased and laughed out loud at her own naïve responses. She was there for me every step of my life— birth, baptism, birthday parties, communion, confirmation, graduation, wedding— just as she was for many others. She was a devoted daughter, sister, wife and mother. Her departure from our earthly world has left behind saddened and aching hearts for all who knew her. I believe, as she was welcomed into her heavenly home and reunited with those who had preceded her, she has not left us. I believe Lorraine now looks down over us all with the same devotion and love as always.

“ One of the earliest memories I have of Granny is when Faye and I were coming home from SLU on Friday. She invited me to eat fish for dinner. Since I saw a boat in the garage I just figured David & Pops fished. Just a logical thought since I grew up fishing. Well, when I saw the Mrs. Paulie's fish sticks I didn't say anything and just ate them. By the way, I never ate fish over there again. Since that time, when I would catch fish I would bring her fresh fish eat. We know that Momma has crossed the bridge and is with Daddy in heaven, and they are in the arms of Jesus. When we see a feather, we will know that you are watching over and praying for us. Love you always
