“ Maria made me the most beautiful wedding veil a few years ago, which perfectly coordinated with my wedding gown. When the gown designers in NYC saw her work, they immediately wanted to hire her. I heard she turned it down because she preferred running her own business and being involved in each creation. She was a craftswoman and an artist. I looked her up today to see if I could commission her work for a first communion veil and headpiece for my daughter. Alas, Maria is gone too soon. She was a blessing in my life and created a precious family heirloom which is now all the more precious. God bless.
