“ I met Millie when she and her husband, L.J., (or Bo as my husband, Chuck called him). moved two doors from us. Bo was Chuck's best friend from the waterfront and we fell in love with Millie. For many years, we talked across the fences and shared our lives. She was a kind, caring, funny lady and the neighborhood watch. She knew everything that was going on. Everyone loved her. When my kids were teenagers, they loved to play jokes on her like hiding in her shower and jumping out at her. She laughed and vowed to get them back. When I was at work, she used to keep an eye on Chuck who was accident prone to make sure he wasn't getting in trouble. She struggled through her losses but always tried to smile when she saw us. She loved her wonderful family and we felt like we had lost part of our family when she had to move. Chuck was very ill after that so we didn't see much of each other but when we did it was like nothing had changed. My family and I will miss her. I like to think of her and Bo and Chuck sitting and laughing like we used to do in her kitchen. Rest in peace Millie.

“ Your mom touch my life in a way I will never forget. When I think of her, I remember my mother's best friend. Isn't it odd how life has a way of carrying on circles of friendships. Them, ours and now our children and grandchildren. Forever! I thank God for the wonderful memories that we all shared. Rest in peace Millie
