“ The apartment on 6th St corner of Prytania in Uptown. You helped restore the "slave" quarters behind a big 2 story 100 yr old house. You were walking down St Charles Ave on a beautiful spring morning without a shirt with your arms in the air, soaking up the beautiful sunshine. A truck driver shouted at you "Put your shirt on stupid!" While you lived there Jackie Norton picked you up as you were hitchhiking down St Charles Ave. She is from Portland, ME and wanted to move to the south. You brought her to Hammond and introduced her to me and Dave. We were living in an old house on Charles St. Jackie moved into our house in Hammond and we moved into the apartment on 6th St. Jackie became one of my best friends and I am still friends with her to this day. She was telling me how meeting you changed her life in so many ways for the better. A chance meeting that gave her a whole new life. God works in mysterious ways.

“ Vic was many things to many people. He was a father, a husband, a brother, a friend, a mentor and more. I must say that he helped me get through several very difficult times in my life and once resolved he never mentioned it. He was one of the strongest people I've ever known. One of my earliest memories of Vic was when I was 12/13 yrs. old. Vic was the first person I ever had a complete conversation with. I mean when I was younger I never sat down with anyone for very long and conversed but Vic affected people like that. When you were one on one with Vic you couldn't help but be the good part of yourself. Thanks for being a part of our lives and letting us be a part of yours my brother and friend. I'm a better person for having known you.

“ Everyone that he made contact with became someone that he felt he was responsible for, and he was given the honor to help them in whatever way possible. Although we talked on the phone, we eventually fell into the pattern of sending each other internet links. He never forgot our personal bond (this in itself amazes me pondering how many personal bonds he may have had) and consistently sent me posts with strange links and amazing food recipes on a regular basis. He was a deeply spiritual person that could seamlessly become a chameleon that could shape-shift into anyone's heart... The last thing he sent me was a musical piece called the Perfect Symphony, sent 1-17-18, 5:19 am. (<https://www.facebook.com/168670117195321/videos/168673393861660/>) When I first heard it I was amazed with the beautiful voices...Then stupidly I attempted to decipher why he sent this to me, as if it had some deeper meaning...Then...I just enjoyed it for its beauty.....

*Victor will be greatly missed by me and all that had the pleasure to know him. He was always thoughtful and considerate. Victor would always ask about me and my family whenever we talked. May God open His arms and keep Victor near his heart.
Rest in peace, my friend. Joe*
